Grand Central Terminal & High Line Park Walking Tour

With the New York City Eataly!

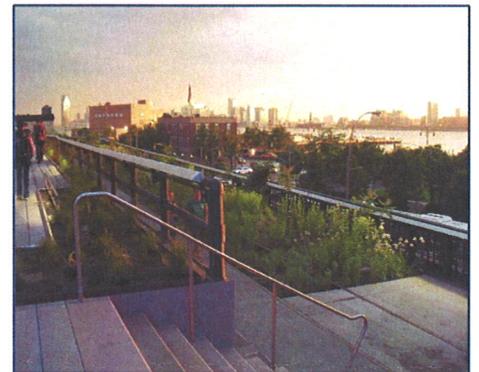

Most people refer to this Beaux-Arts beauty as Grand Central Station but it's actually a Terminal because this is where train lines originate and terminate.

The revitalized Grand Central combines the romance of train, travel, history superb restaurants, and outstanding retail shops.

It's unlike any other New York attraction right in the heart of midtown!

The High Line is a 1.45 mile-long New York City Linear Park built in Manhattan on an elevated section of a disused New York Central Railroad Spur called the West Side Line.

Eataly is an original "marketplace" where you will experience high quality traditional Italian food products along with local produce and artisanal products.

Each restaurant offers authentic Italian dishes with an emphasis on a particular type of food group.
